I.O. BACKGROUND

Feasting at Lantergeist takes place in the village of Marshstown on a bay extending from a great lake the size of an inland sea as described in the Adventure Path. The town is about to celebrate its annual Lantergeist Festival as the PCs arrive, and into this quaint gothic atmosphere is introduced the horror of the alien infestation seeking to feast upon the unsuspecting populace. As the PCs trace the trail of these horrific deaths they are eventually confided in by the town's mayor and led to the local Sea Temple, a much larger structure than the village church.

I.I. BEGINNING THE ADVENTURE

The PCs come to Marshstown, a town who has an uneasy peace with everyone pursued. Quietly, the PCs begin to ask around among the locals for the whereabouts of this mysterious figure. The locals are a suspicious and close-mouthed lot, and the PCs' queries eventually draw the attention of the village sheriff. This is described in the Adventure Path. This event describes the PCs' investigation and the subsequent interview with the town mayor. The PCs begin to talk about disappearances. Instead of giving them any direction, he'll share only that a few disappearances occurred with no leads as to the villagers' whereabouts. He'll nervously laugh and explain, "When you make a boat on the turbulent waters of the sea, someone's boating from time to time from boating accidents and such. Just because no one's washed up yet or not before they went out on the water doesn't mean it's something sinister."

The mayor will not, in this circumstance, share his knowledge of the disappearances or go into recruiting the PCs to the Sea Temple. Instead, the mayor will attempt to ally their suspicion of the town's annual festival being the cause of the learned of the foreign merchant rumors (see the Gothic town rumors) to suspect him of involvement with the festival. More information about the festival is available in the

2.O. THE FESTIVAL OF LANTERNGEIST

As night falls, the Festival of Lantergeist gets underway, and soon the town square is ablaze with a massive bonfire as well as hundreds of glowing lanterns. In addition to the paper lanterns strung from cords above the ground, many of the townsfolk carry lanterns at the ends of long poles that they brace against their shoulders as they mill about. These they prop against rocks or tables as they dance or partake of the various offerings of the festival. A band of pipers and drummers plays merry dancing jigs at one corner of the square, and many of the festival-goers wear fanciful masks depicting angels, devils, and everything in between.

The whole experience is one of gaiety and frivolity as the locals dismiss their cares for the night and indulge in the festivities. This is perhaps the only time the PCs are encouraged to join in the festivities and other victims of the murders and other victims of the murders. 3.O. BACK TO TOWN

Eventually the PCs' investigations should lead them back into Marshstown during the height of the night's Lantergeist Festival, likely in pursuit of the apparent serial killer that has escaped them. Arriving in town, they find the Square full of townsfolk wearing crudely fashioned masks of assorted animals and fanciful spirits participating in a masquerade dance in full swing.

If the PCs search for the mayor, he can easily be located holding court at a kissing booth where he wears a mask of imported peacock feathers and sells pecks on the cheek for apples or other treats from the festival. If drawn aside and updated on what has occurred in the murder investigation, he pales and appears on the verge of apoplexy as he realizes that with these crimes under their very noses, he has no constabulary left in his town; he is obviously a psychopathic murderer trying these crimes under their very noses. The PCs to stop Grumph and bring him to justice. He follows the PCs to stop Grumph and bring him to justice. He follows the PCs to stop Grumph and bring him to justice.

8.I. FESTIVAL OF LANTERNGEIST

The Festival of Lantergeist is a local holiday held annually by the folk of Marshstown. Ostensibly its purpose is to ward off the spirits of ancient evils that are thought to brood over the coast and surrounding swamplands as a holdover from the days when dark druidic barbarians held sway over these lands. The festival
